Dear Judge Griesbach,

I am writing to you regarding Ron Van Den Heuvel.
Case # 17CR160.

I will start by saying that I have yet to meet a more generous person than my brother, Ron. He would gladly give or share anything that he has. He always loved to include anyone in any event he was attending or share any of his good fortune with others. He wished the best for old and new friends. So many people have shared their stories of how Ron helped them out. Whether he helped them get a job or by lending them money, I have actually had people say to me that "they have everything they have because of Ron Van Den Heuvel."

Our family of 100 plus is so strong because of the loyalty and unconditional love we eight siblings have for one another. I give our parents the credit for instilling that in us. Ron, being the oldest, has always felt a responsibility of making sure his younger siblings feel safe and protected by him. My daughter has a stalker situation and Ron has called me twice from jail to ask about her well being. He has always been an amazing uncle. He tries to keep up on all of his nieces and nephews lives. He does this to make sure they are all doing ok. His strong love and respect for our parents and grandparents was evident whenever he spoke of them. He would share so many stories and memories of his childhood, so that we younger siblings, would know how wonderful they all were. Ron's love of family is above everything else. He hoped to succeed so that he could make life better for his extended family.

Ron has this beautiful childlike quality of always seeing the light at the end of every tunnel. When you are talking with him, he does make you feel hopeful and safe. He is optimistic to a fault. That may be the reason he never gives up on any idea! He has worked twelve hour days and seven days a week for most of his life. I believe he did all of this to make a better life for his extended family, friends and co-workers.

I will end by saying that Ron has admitted that he has done many things wrong. He seems to be remorseful for them. He acknowledges that he should never be in charge of the finances of any company.

Sincerely,

Jane Piontek
