Re: United States v. Amanda Knorr
Criminal No. 15-398-2

Dear Judge Slomsky,

As Your Honor is aware, the government is working to compile a final list of victims in the above-referenced matter so that a restitution order may be entered. While we had hoped to have such list completed by this past Friday's sentencing hearing, additional time is necessary to synthesize multiple lists (which we only recently learned must be done manually) and to confirm the contact information for various victims.

Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 3664(d)(5), the final determination of restitution may be delayed up to 90 days after sentencing. See Dolan v. United States, 560 U.S. 605, 611-15 (2010); United States v. Dando, 287 F.3d 1007, 1010 (10th Cir. 2002), (citing United States v. Maung, 267 F.3d 1113, 1121 (11th Cir. 2001)). In the interim, the Court may enter the judgement of conviction with a notation that a restitution order will be entered at a future date. Id.

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM McSWAIN
United States Attorney
